Wild Kratts®: Creature Power®! Exhibit Opens at Children's Museum of Pittsburgh On Saturday, May 20

Pittsburgh, PA, MAY 2, 2023 – Wild Kratts®: Creature Power®, an interactive exhibit based on the popular PBS Kids series, will open at Children's Museum of Pittsburgh on Saturday, May 20.

This adventurous exhibit – which focuses on cultivating STEM skills in children ages 3 to 9 – invites kids and families to explore animal habitats from around the globe, discover incredible creature powers and go on a mission to foil the villains' nefarious plans.

Join us for special activities on opening weekend:

Saturday, May 20, Noon – 2:00 pm

Get an introduction to animals' unique adaptations to their environments as you meet live animal ambassadors from Pittsburgh Zoo & Aquarium, including a hedgehog, lizard and turtle . You can also explore fur, feathers and scales at a touch table with Zoo education specialists.

"We're excited to host an exhibit that knits exploration and discovery with rich learning experiences in the natural sciences," said Anne Fullenkamp, Senior Director of Creative Experiences at Children's Museum of Pittsburgh.

Visitors will explore four animal habitats including:

- Tropical Rainforest
- The Antarctic
- Australian Outback Desert
- Your Neighborhood

“This exhibit will get kids moving and thinking while they explore important concepts in science and the natural world,” said Chris Kratt, executive producer of Wild Kratts and co-founder of The Kratt Brothers Company.

Kids and families will get the chance to learn about and try out various Creature Powers® such as:

- Sneaking through the forest using the stealth of a jaguar
- Swinging through the trees like a spider monkey
- Testing their hops against a kangaroo
- And much more!

Wild Kratts®: Creature Power was created by Minnesota Children’s Museum in collaboration with the Kratt Brothers Company.
