Explore a New Inflatable Color Experience at Chroma Maze in MuseumLab

The immersive sculpture for kids of all ages opens Saturday, November 18

PITTSBURGH, PA (November 17, 2023) – Children’s Museum of Pittsburgh is excited to debut a brand new artwork in MuseumLab, Chroma Maze, that can be explored every Saturday and Sunday, noon – 5:00 pm.

Walk into this large-scale inflatable sculpture and circle around a path bathed in color that blends into new shades at each turn. Find your way to the sculpture’s center where you can bounce, sit or lay back and enjoy the light filtering through its mosaic-like ceiling.

“We’re thrilled to add another transformative experience for kids and youth to experience in MuseumLab. Exploring color in a fun and tactile way in Chroma Maze is a great addition to our exhibits for growing minds,” says Jane Werner, Executive Director of Children’s Museum of Pittsburgh.

Chroma Maze was created by Pneuhaus, a design studio that makes large-scale experiential installations that explore space, light, color and sound, often for festivals and special events. This is the first permanent installation that Pneuhaus has created.

“The size and scale of Chroma Maze is stunning as you enter MuseumLab,” says Anne Fullenkamp, Sr. Director of Creative Experiences. “Once inside, you’re enveloped in a world of light and color that’s both exciting and meditative.”

Chroma Maze is a shoes-off, socks-on environment much like Gymnasium, the climbing sculpture by Manca Ahlin in MuseumLab. The installation will be up through September 24, 2024.

MuseumLab is located next door to Children’s Museum of Pittsburgh and included with museum admission.
